

Our Value Proposition

LegalResources is focused on building meaningful relationships with clients as opposed to standard vendor-client arrangements and our commitment is to deliver efficient and cost-effective legal support services subject to client quality control.

Essential for outsourcing success is that clients maintain close control over project execution and that stringent process management safeguards are in place.

Adopting the LPO model is typically a four step process for clients:

Phase 1 Feasibility Study:

Identify what processes and/or systems you want to move offshore. There are a number of approaches to take; from outsourcing all of your work through to identifying only certain tasks that are usually undertaken by paralegals or junior lawyers under the supervision of senior in-house counsel.

Phase 2 Lead-up to Offshore:

Develop the implementation plan and determine the costs, benefits, and risks.

Phase 3 Pilot Project:

Most organisations conduct an initial pilot project by transferring just part of the process offshore in order to minimise the risk at the outset.

Phase 4 Offshore Outsourcing:

As confidence grows in the LPO model, you can expand the scope of services completed offshore and include more important accounts in the process.

LegalResources is NOT an Australian legal practitioner and does NOT engage in legal practice.
